Director's Notes Agatha Christie has long been considered the Grande-Dame of the murder mystery. The Mousetrap, which opened at the Ambassadors' Theatre in London in November of 1952, encompasses her expertise as both a mystery writer and playwright...no wonder that this play is the longest running play of all time having opened but never closed in London.

There is something for everyone in this play, so sit back, enjoy and during intermission try to figure out...Whodunit !!!

KJR

Special Thanks to Sue R. for her love and patience, Karen and Tammy for their unending support, Barry for his tolerance, the Theatre Department for ears and hands, as well as support, and the cast and crew for their work ethic and creativity...love ya all !!!
