Biographical Note

“The Adirondack Wind Ensemble (AWE) is a professional musical ensemble of wind and percussion instruments that consists of music educators and outstanding college and community musicians from around the North Country. Its performers represent every public school district in Clinton County as well as several communities beyond. They have gathered in AWE to share the joy of making music. AWE is dedicated to providing quality performances by members of this community for this community. Since its founding in January of 2002 by Daniel Gordon, a member of the music faculty at SUNY Plattsburgh, AWE has performed an annual winter concert in E. Glenn Giltz Auditorium and was featured in Battle of Plattsburgh Commissions in September 2002-2004.

In subsequent years, guest conductor Dan Geldert directed AWE in annual fall concerts at Plattsburgh High School. In order to maintain a an annual two-concert schedule after Geldert’s departure from the region in 2009, AWE now performs its annual program twice, once in E. Glenn Giltz Auditorium in Plattsburgh, and a second time at the Lake Placid Center for the Arts. AWE also performed at First Night in Saranac Lake on New Year’s Eve 2014. These geographic expansions have made AWE a true ‘Adirondack’ Wind Ensemble.

In the fall of 2013, family and friends of Eleanor Marcus created the Eleanor Marcus Music Endowment through the Plattsburgh College Foundation. Ms. Marcus graduated from SUNY Plattsburgh in 1943 and loved music, attending almost every music event at E. Glenn Giltz Auditorium for decades until her passing. AWE celebrates her love of music through the annual Eleanor Marcus Memorial Concert.”
